

Day 11: The "Why You?" Question

Morning Post (Educational)

LinkedIn Post

If your CV summary starts with "highly motivated, result-oriented professional," you have already lost the recruiter's interest.

Many job seekers fill their resume summaries with generic buzzwords that mean absolutely nothing to a hiring manager. They think it makes them sound professional, but it just sounds like white noise.

Recruiters scan right past these empty adjectives. They want to know: What is your target role? What is your core area of expertise? What is your biggest, most quantifiable business outcome?

Use the 3-Sentence Rule: Sentence 1: [Target Title] with [X] years of experience in [Core Field]. Sentence 2: Specialized in [Skill A] and [Skill B] to deliver [Result]. Sentence 3: Key achievement includes [Quantifiable Metric].

I've reviewed dozens of CVs, and summaries containing hard numbers get double the attention of summaries filled with buzzwords.

A summary should be a highlight reel of your facts, not a list of your personality traits. You can use AI to extract and structure your best achievements.

If this sounds familiar, I'll be teaching the complete workflow inside my upcoming AI Job Seeker Workshop. Seats are limited.

Handwritten Visual

Handwritten Visual Text

"Recruiters scan for numbers, not adjectives."

AI Visual Prompt

Minimalist overhead photo of clean white paper. The sentence is handwritten neatly in thick black marker. Natural lighting. No hands. No notebook. No decorations. High contrast. Mobile friendly. Lots of white space. Instagram and LinkedIn optimized.

Repurposed Formats

LinkedIn Carousel

- Slide 1: Title: The Profile Summary Formula.
- Slide 2: The Mistake: Writing generic adjectives like "detail-oriented" or "passionate".
- Slide 3: The Truth: Recruiters skip the fluff and look for hard metrics.
- Slide 4: The Fix: Use the 3-Sentence Rule (Role -> Specialization -> Metric).
- Slide 5: Register: AI Job Seeker Workshop. Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

WhatsApp Status

- Slide 1: Replace "highly motivated professional" with your actual business achievements.
- Slide 2: Learn how to write high-converting CV summaries with AI. Workshop registration link:
<https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

Facebook Post

If your CV summary starts with "highly motivated, result-oriented professional," you have already lost the recruiter's interest.

Recruiters skip buzzwords. They want to know your title, expertise, and metrics. Use the 3-Sentence Rule to highlight your actual value. I've reviewed dozens of CVs, and metric-driven summaries get double the attention.

I'm teaching the exact summary workflow at the AI Job Seeker Workshop. Workshop registration link:
<https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

X Thread

1/ If your CV summary starts with "highly motivated, result-oriented professional," you've already lost. Here is what to write instead. ■

2/ Adjectives like "dynamic" or "passionate" are empty space on a resume. They tell recruiters nothing.

3/ Recruiters want hard facts: your title, specialization, and biggest achievement.

4/ The fix: Use the 3-Sentence Rule. State who you are, what you specialize in, and your biggest metric.

5/ I've reviewed dozens of CVs, and summaries with numbers get far more callbacks.

6/ Your summary is your hook. Make it count.

7/ Learn the prompting workflow at the AI Job Seeker Workshop. Workshop registration link:
<https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

Afternoon Post (Story / Case Study)

LinkedIn Post

He replaced "detail-oriented leader" with "managed KES 200,000 project budget." Then his phone rang.

He had four years of solid experience in operations, but he described himself with terms like "synergistic" and "dynamic." He wasn't getting any callbacks because his CV sounded exactly like everyone else's.

Hiring managers don't search for "dynamic leaders." They search for people who have managed budgets, optimized logistics, or cut operational costs.

We stripped the corporate jargon. We used a simple AI prompt to extract his past project achievements and rewrote his summary to focus purely on metrics and business outcomes.

One of my clients got hired this week after we replaced his generic summary with a metric-driven introduction.

If you want recruiters to call, talk about results, not attributes.

If you're serious about improving your applications, I'll show the exact system during the workshop.

Handwritten Visual

Handwritten Visual Text

"Recruiters hire results, not adjectives."

AI Visual Prompt

Minimalist overhead photo of clean white paper. The sentence is handwritten neatly in thick black marker. Natural lighting. No hands. No notebook. No decorations. High contrast. Mobile friendly. Lots of white space. Instagram and LinkedIn optimized.

Repurposed Formats

LinkedIn Carousel

- Slide 1: Title: Hired by Changing One Section.
- Slide 2: The Client: 4 years of operations experience, zero callbacks.
- Slide 3: The Problem: Used buzzwords like "dynamic leader" to describe his work.
- Slide 4: The Solution: Stripped the jargon, added a KES 200k budget metric to the top summary.
- Slide 5: The Result: Inbound calls started. Learn how to extract your metrics in my workshop. Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

WhatsApp Status

- Slide 1: My client went from zero calls to hired by replacing buzzwords with project budgets.
- Slide 2: Learn how to write metric-driven CVs. Join the workshop. Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

Facebook Post

He replaced "detail-oriented leader" with "managed KES 200,000 project budget." Then his phone rang.

He was getting zero callbacks because he sounded like a template. We stripped the jargon and highlighted his actual budget metrics. One of my clients got hired this week after we made this change.

Talk about results, not attributes. Join the AI Job Seeker Workshop. Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

X Thread

1/ He replaced "detail-oriented leader" with "managed KES 200,000 project budget." Then his phone rang. Here is the breakdown. ■

2/ He had great experience, but his CV summary was a list of corporate buzzwords.

3/ Hiring managers don't search for "passionate leaders." They search for people who manage budgets.

- 4/ We rewrote his summary to lead with his actual project scale and metrics.
 - 5/ One of my clients got hired this week after we made this change.
 - 6/ Stop describing your personality. Describe your business impact.
 - 7/ Learn the workflow at the AI Job Seeker Workshop. Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>
-

Evening Post (Workshop Invitation)

LinkedIn Post

The KES 1,000 Early Bird ticket for the AI Job Seeker Workshop is ending soon.

Many job seekers wait until the last minute and end up paying the regular price of KES 1,500.

There are only 20 seats available to ensure I can answer everyone's questions and review your submissions.

Learn how to write high-impact summary statements and CV bullet points that get noticed by recruiters using our simple prompting workflow.

I've worked with over 10 professionals to write high-converting CVs and optimize their job search.

Grab your KES 1,000 ticket today before the price increases.

Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

Handwritten Visual

Handwritten Visual Text

"Save KES 500. Register today."

AI Visual Prompt

Minimalist overhead photo of clean white paper. The sentence is handwritten neatly in thick black marker. Natural lighting. No hands. No notebook. No decorations. High contrast. Mobile friendly. Lots of white space. Instagram and LinkedIn optimized.

Repurposed Formats

LinkedIn Carousel

- Slide 1: Title: The AI Job Seeker Workshop: Save KES 500.
- Slide 2: The Ticket: Early Bird price is KES 1,000. Regular price is KES 1,500.
- Slide 3: The Value: 2-hour session, prompting templates, and ATS-safe Word document.
- Slide 4: The Limit: 20 seats only.

- Slide 5: Get Your Ticket: Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

WhatsApp Status

- Slide 1: Early Bird KES 1,000 ticket for the AI Job Seeker Workshop is closing.
- Slide 2: Save KES 500 and secure your seat. Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

Facebook Post

The KES 1,000 Early Bird ticket for the AI Job Seeker Workshop is ending soon.

Don't wait and pay KES 1,500. I have limited the workshop to 20 seats. In 2 hours, you'll learn the complete AI workflow to tailor your applications. I've worked with over 10 professionals to improve their search.

Secure your Early Bird ticket now. Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>

X Thread

- 1/ The KES 1,000 Early Bird ticket for the AI Job Seeker Workshop is ending soon. ■
- 2/ Regular pricing is KES 1,500. Don't pay extra by delaying.
- 3/ The session is limited to 20 seats so that we can have an interactive Q&A.;
- 4/ You will learn the exact prompts to write metric-driven CV summaries and bullet points.
- 5/ I've worked with over 10 professionals to optimize their resumes.
- 6/ Save KES 500 and register today.
- 7/ AI Job Seeker Workshop registration link: <https://duncanmakoyo.com/#!/workshop>